The attacks are greater but so are the results.

As I write we have almost completed our first tour in the new bus. Before we left we had friends pray with us and sensed, as I did, that just as God moved us up to a higher class in our travelling accommodations He was taking us up a level in ministry. I wasn't sure what all that would entail but I felt like it would start with the beginning of the tour.

Now, looking back at all that has taken place we can see that God has turned the anointing up a notch. We've had many opportunities to pray for people individually only to find out later that God spoke through us directly to where they were at. We're learning to walk in a new authority and we're seeing the enemy's grip on people loosen.

But with this disrupting of darkness we're also seeing it fight back. We've had one attack after another and it hasn't been easy to stay standing. It seems we just stop reeling from one blow and we get hit from the other side. One close friend who intercedes for us regularly called early Sunday morning in great concern because she was sensing the cloud of discouragement that was settling over us. She said as she prayed she saw the bus coming up toward the church but then turning the other way and going home. God knows we've certainly felt like going home sometimes. Thank God for her and many others who hold us up with their prayers when we don't have the strength to stand alone.

We realize now that as we enter this realm and push back the powers of darkness the attacks will be greater, but so also are the results! So, we're praising God for what He's doing in and through us but we're also pleading with you again, keep us in your prayers. There are times when that is the only thing keeping us going. Cathy.

Hancock MI—A crazy storm in November

Extended meetings in Rockford IL. The Pastor and his wife were very encouraged

As I began to thank God for all these trials instead of complaining, they were resolved quite quickly & easily!

Before I go any further I want to tell you I LOVE the NEW BUS. It is so much more room and wonderful because Cathy and I finally have a room to ourselves where we can go to sleep without having to wait for every one to clear the kitchen.

I was so excited to have the newer bus for another reason. Now I would have more time to spend on other things besides repairing the bus so much. I thought a 25 year newer bus would have very few problems. I was unfortunately wrong. The electrical system was wired incorrectly so I had to rewire some of that. The one power cord was wired incorrectly so I had to repair that as well. The plumbing needed some modification so I did that. Then I noticed the shower was leaking behind the wall so that had to be repaired. (A 12 hour job)

I got to one church and the power started doing some funny things and I thought I blew almost every major appliance in the bus.

Fortunately it turned out to be another problem with a power cord and all my surge protectors blew but not the expensive appliances. PTL.

In Edmonton the air dryer started acting up on me. Near the end of the two day job I had 3 cooling lines break. They literally cracked like glass. With antifreeze spraying all over me, I felt like the little Dutch boy with his finger in the dike as I tried to stop the leak. I ran into the church to try and find a pail and just my luck there was a funeral going on. When we got to Rockford, IL. I noticed the back wheel was missing 4 nuts. THE WHEEL was loose! The convection microwave oven broke as well around then.

I thought, "What should I do?" James 1:2-4 says "My brethren, count it all joy when you fall into various trials, knowing that the testing of your faith produces patience. But let patience have its perfect work, that you may be perfect and complete, lacking nothing."

As I began to thank God for all these trials instead of complaining they were resolved quite easily. I think God was waiting for me to catch on to this before allowing me to move on.

In this life we will have trials. I'll be so glad for heaven. NO more rust, No more thieves, no more breakdowns, but till then I'll keep praising God through all of them. Halleluiah!

Praise reports:

Here's an email we got after sending out our last newsletter:

"I have not got the chance to read the entire newsletter, but read about the bus. . . yay!!! I am so excited and happy for you guys and the testimony it carries! I know that helped me, I have been struggling with letting go of a couple of my credit cards. I feel like they are there for emergencies. . . but I have it all wrong. They are holding a stronghold over my life and my emergency card should be my hope and trust in the Lord. I am a single mom and, Lloyd, you prayed over me, for my mind to be clear and wisdom to be given over my finances. To know where my money goes and how I should use it. God has been showing me different aspects and areas of my life that I don't have complete trust in Him to take care of us. I want to thank you for your testimony and I want you to know my goal is to get rid of my credit cards. To keep praying and thanking God for all that he has given me. If I don't have it . . . well, I don't need it. Thanks again Vandenberg family!

A family hike while in Alberta's Banff National Park

Hearing different testimonies and looking back over what God has done the last three months is what makes the challenges worth while. In Thunder Bay a lady came up to me and said years ago when we sang at her church with the Phillips Family her mother raised her hand for salvation. Her husband had just passed away so she was alone in life but God came in and filled that void and she's never looked back. Now here we were all these years later ministering and praying together with the next generation.

Another lady told me that the last time we ministered at her church (2 years ago) she asked me (Cathy) to pray for her. She was feeling an overwhelming sadness as God did a deep work in her. When I prayed the tears came uncontrollably but they were washing away the sadness. God removed that weight and she's been free from it since.

We had the opportunity to talk with a couple who were ready to give up on their marriage.

Here's what they wrote to us later:

"I want to thank you so much for taking the time and talking with us. . . . I have never been able to talk to anyone so easily before. It did feel like 'chains' were lifting when we talked about things on

Enjoying a few days off in Alberta 1/2 way through the trip.

Sunday night. Never before have we had the chance to talk to anyone like that. It felt good. God put you in our area for many reasons. I believe one of them was to help us. I was ready to be done. I couldn't handle it anymore. The talk was definitely an eye opener. . . . . Thank you for everything!"

If we went to that town just to save one marriage it was worth it. Praise God!

A friend of ours was travelling recently in a restricted access country on business. Because of the pollution there his flight was cancelled. His frustration mounted and the company he was working for finally sent him by car to another airport.

This delay was frustrating him and he wondered "Why all this hassle God? He then remembered the delay Katelynn had this past summer trying to get to visit Deanna and the divine appointment God had for Garrett and her. Our friend realized God was wanting him to share the gospel with the driver who was taking him to the airport. The driver was open to the gospel and our friend gave him a Bible. Look for God in your delays and detours!

How well do you hear?

An old widower was seen happily walking around town with an attractive young blond woman. His doctor happened to see him and asked him, "WHAT ARE YOU DOING?" "Just following your orders" the old man replied. "What were my orders?" asked the doctor. "Get yourself a hot momma and be cheerful!" replied the old man. No., NO, NO! replied the doctor, "I SAID, YOU GOT YOURSELF A HEART MURMER AND BE CAREFUL!"
